QUALIFYING DEPRECIABLE PROPERTY

Idaho generally follows the definition of qualified property found in the Internal Revenue Code (IRC), Sections 46 and 48 as in effect prior to 1986. The property must have a useful life of three years or more and be property for which you are allowed the deduction for depreciation or amortization in lieu of depreciation. Qualifying property includes the following property used in a trade or business:

- Tangible personal property - machinery and equipment
- Other tangible property - property used as an integral part of manufacturing, production, extraction, or furnishing transportation, communications, or utility services, or research facilities and bulk storage facilities used in connection with those businesses
- Elevators and escalators
- Single purpose agricultural or horticultural structures
- Qualified timber property
- Petroleum storage facilities
- Qualified broadband equipment as approved by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission

NONQUALIFYING PROPERTY

Property that does not qualify includes:

- Buildings and their structural components
- Property used in lodging facilities that rent 50% or more of their lodging units for periods of 30 days or longer, such as apartment houses or rental homes. (Does not apply to hotels and motels that rent more than half their units for periods less than 30 days.) Nonqualifying property includes property used in the living quarters, lobby furniture, office equipment, and laundry and swimming pool facilities but excludes certain coin-operated machines.
- The cost of property expensed under Section 179, IRC
- Property subject to 60-month amortization
- Used property not acquired by purchase
- Property that is either nondepreciable or has a useful life of fewer than three years
- The portion of property used for personal use
- Used property in excess of $150,000
- Horses

Idaho exceptions to IRC Sections 46 and 48

Idaho law specifically excludes the following property from qualifying for the Idaho investment tax credit:

- Property not used in Idaho
- Vehicles under 8,000 pounds gross weight
