

BEFORE THE TAX COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF IDAHO

In the Matter of the Protest of)

Petitioners.)	DECISION

On August 4, 2009, the Revenue Operations division of the Idaho State Tax Commission issued a Notice of Deficiency Determination to [Redacted] (taxpayer) proposing tax and interest in the amount of $306 for taxable year 2008.

The petitioner filed a timely appeal. He did not request a hearing. The Tax Commission, having reviewed the file, hereby issues its decision based upon the information contained in the file.

The sole issue for this decision is whether the petitioner is entitled to a dependency exemption deduction for [Redacted], [Redacted] daughter from a prior marriage.

[Redacted] was previously married to [Redacted] and a child was born of that marriage. [Redacted] divorced in 2001. The divorce decree provided that Lorrie’s primary residence was to be with her mother. Child support was ordered to be paid by [Redacted], but there was no mention of which parent was to claim the dependency exemption.

Deductions are a matter of legislative grace, and taxpayers bear the burden of proving that they are entitled to the deductions claimed. INDOPCO, Inc. v. Commissioner, 503 U.S. 79, 84, 112 S. Ct. 1039, 117 L.Ed.2d 226 (1992); New Colonial Ice Co. v. Helvering, 292 U.S. 435, 440, 54 S. Ct. 788, 78 L.Ed. 1348 (1934). Internal Revenue Code (IRC) section 151(c) allows a taxpayer a deduction of the exemption amount for each dependent as defined in IRC section 152.

A child of a taxpayer is generally a dependent of the taxpayer. IRC section 152(e) provides a special rule for divorced parents. It states in pertinent part:

(1) In general.

Notwithstanding subsection (c)(1)(B), (c)(4), or (d)(1)(C), if—

(A) a child receives over one-half of the child's support during the calendar year from the child's parents—

(i) who are divorced or legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance,

(ii) who are separated under a written separation agreement, or

(iii) who live apart at all times during the last 6 months of the calendar year, and—

(B) such child is in the custody of 1 or both of the child's parents for more than one-half of the calendar year, such child shall be treated as being the qualifying child or qualifying relative of the noncustodial parent for a calendar year if the requirements described in paragraph (2) or (3) are met.

(2) Exception where custodial parent releases claim to exemption for the year. For purposes of paragraph (1), the requirements described in this paragraph are met with respect to any calendar year if—

(A) the custodial parent signs a written declaration (in such manner and form as the Secretary may by regulations prescribe) that such custodial parent will not claim such child as a dependent for any taxable year beginning in such calendar year, and

(B) the noncustodial parent attaches such written declaration to the noncustodial parent's return for the taxable year beginning during such calendar year.

IRC section 152(e)(2) clearly requires that the custodial parent sign a written declaration releasing the dependency exemption in order for the noncustodial parent to claim the child's dependency exemption. The taxpayer provided no such declaration, nor did he show that he was the custodial parent.

The control over a child's dependency exemption conferred on the custodial parent by section 152(e)(2) was intended by Congress to simplify the process of determining who is entitled to claim dependency exemptions for children of a marriage. See H. Rept. 98-432 (Part 2), at 1498 (1984). To make section 152(e)(2) work as intended, that control must be preserved by insisting on adherence to the requirements of section 152(e)(2). Simply attaching a State court order that is not signed by the custodial parent to the return of the noncustodial parent does not satisfy the express statutory requirements of section 152(e)(2)(A). Miller v. CIR, 114 T.C. 184, (2000).

Since the signed release is a requirement for IRC section 152(e) to apply, the determination of whether the taxpayer can claim the dependent exemption reverts to IRC section 152(c) and (d).

IRC section 152(c) defines a “qualifying child” as an individual who (1) bears a certain relationship to the taxpayer, such as the taxpayer’s child or grandchild, (2) has the same principal place of abode as the taxpayer for more than one-half of the taxable year, (3) meets certain age requirements, and (4) has not provided over one-half of the individual’s own support for the taxable year. IRC section 152(c)(1) through (3).

IRC section 152(d) defines a “qualifying relative” as an individual (1) who bears a certain relationship to the taxpayer, such as the taxpayer’s child or grandchild, (2) whose gross income for the taxable year is less than the exemption amount, (3) with respect to whom the taxpayer provides over one-half of the individual’s support for the taxable year, and (4) who is not a qualifying child of the taxpayer or of any other taxpayer for the taxable year. IRC section 152(d)(1) and (2).

To claim a dependent exemption, the taxpayer must show he has either a qualifying child or a qualifying relative. Regarding a qualifying child, the taxpayer has not shown that [Redacted] principal place of abode was with him for more than one-half the taxable year. He has not met his burden of proving that Lorrie was a qualifying child in 2008. As for meeting the requirements for a qualifying relative of the taxpayer, the taxpayer failed to show that he provided over one-half of [Redacted] support for the taxable year, or that [Redacted] was not a qualifying child of any other taxpayer for the taxable year. The taxpayer has not carried his burden of proving [Redacted] was his qualifying relative in 2008.

Because the taxpayer has failed to establish that [Redacted] was either a qualifying child or a qualifying relative for purposes of IRC section 152, the Tax Commission finds that the taxpayer is not entitled to a dependency exemption deduction for [Redacted] for 2008. And since the taxpayer is not entitled to the dependency exemption, the taxpayer cannot claim an additional grocery credit for [Redacted] per Idaho Code section 63-3024A.

WHEREFORE, the Notice of Deficiency Determination directed to [Redacted] dated August 4, 2009, is APPROVED, AFFIRMED, and MADE FINAL.

It is ordered and this does order that the taxpayer pays the following tax and interest:

YEAR	TAX	INTEREST	TOTAL
2008	$303	$3	$306

DEMAND for immediate payment of the foregoing amount is hereby made and given.

An explanation of the taxpayers' right to appeal this decision is enclosed.
