

BEFORE THE TAX COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF IDAHO

In the Matter of the Protest of)

Petitioners.)	DECISION
_____)

[Redacted] and [Redacted] (taxpayers) submitted a timely protest of the Notice of Deficiency Determination issued July 23, 2014, by the Revenue Operations Division of the Idaho State Tax Commission (Commission) proposing additional tax and interest of $89 for taxable year 2011. The taxpayers disagreed with the adjustment disallowing the dependency exemption deduction for [Redacted], [Redacted] daughter from a previous marriage. The Commission hereby issues its decision based upon the information contained in the file.

BACKGROUND

The taxpayers filed their 2011 Idaho individual income tax return claiming a dependency exemption deduction for [Redacted] daughter, [Redacted]. The taxpayers’ return was identified as one of two returns that claimed a dependency exemption deduction for [Redacted]. The Taxpayer Accounting Section (Taxpayer Accounting) requested additional information from the taxpayers in the form of a questionnaire. The taxpayers did not respond to the questionnaire.

Taxpayer Accounting reviewed the information, determined that the taxpayer was not entitled to the dependency exemption deduction, and issued a Notice of Deficiency Determination denying the deduction. The taxpayer filed a timely protest of the Notice of Deficiency Determination. [Redacted] responded by e-mail that [Redacted] lived with her from January 27, 1999, until an unspecified date in “October 2013, when she moved in with her Dad”. The file was referred to the Legal/Tax Policy Division for administrative review. The taxpayer was sent a letter explaining the methods available for redetermining a protested Notice of Deficiency Determination. The taxpayers did not respond.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

The sole issue for decision is whether the taxpayer is entitled to the dependency exemption deduction for her daughter, [Redacted]. Deductions are granted by legislative action and the taxpayer bears the burden of proving he is entitled to the deductions claimed. INDOPCO, Inc. v. Commissioner, 503 U.S. 79, 84, 112 S. Ct. 1039, 117 L. Ed. 2d 226 (1992); New Colonial Ice Co. v. Helvering, 292 U.S. 435, 440, 54 S. Ct. 788, 78 L. Ed. 1348 (1934). The Internal Revenue Code (IRC) section 151(c) allows a taxpayer a deduction of the exemption amount for each dependent as defined in IRC section 152.

IRC section 152(a) defines a dependent as either “a qualifying child” or “qualifying relative”. A qualifying child is an individual who (1) bears a certain relationship to the taxpayer, (2) has the same principal place of abode as the taxpayer for more than one-half of the taxable year, (3) meets certain age requirements, (4) has not provided over one-half of the individual’s own support for the taxable year, and (5) has not filed a joint return with the individual’s spouse for the taxable year. IRC section 152(c)(1) through (3).

A qualifying relative is an individual (1) who bears a certain relationship to the taxpayer, (2) whose gross income for the taxable year is less than the exemption amount, (3) with respect to whom the taxpayer provides over one-half of the individual’s support for the taxable year, and (4) who is not a qualifying child of such taxpayer or of any other taxpayer for the taxable year.

The dependency exemption, as a general rule, is limited under IRC section 152(e)(1) as follows: if the child received over one-half of his support during the calendar year from one or both parents who live apart at all times during the last 6 months of the calendar year and the child is in the custody of one or both parents for more than one-half of the calendar year, then the child is treated as the qualifying child of the noncustodial parent if certain requirements are met. Under the Treasury Regulations, section 1.152-4(b)(3), the requirements for a release of claim is met if (1) the custodial parent signs a written declaration (in such manner and form as the Secretary may prescribe) identifying the taxable year or years the custodial parent will not claim the child as a dependent; and (2) the noncustodial parent attaches the written declaration to his or her return for each taxable year the exemption is being claimed.

The noncustodial parent may only claim the dependency exemption when the custodial parent provides the noncustodial parent a release of the dependency exemption on Form 8332 or other document whose sole purpose is to serve as a written declaration releasing the dependency exemption. The form must be signed and dated by the custodial parent identifying the year or years that the custodial parent will not claim the dependency exemption. The noncustodial parent receiving the right to claim the dependency exemption must attach the waiver to their tax return, then the waiver will be honored and the noncustodial parent may claim the dependency exemption for the child.

The term “custodial parent” is defined in section 1.152-4(d) as the parent having custody for the greater portion of the calendar year. In the present case, the taxpayer responded by e-mail that she was [Redacted] custodial parent during the tax year in question. She also provided information from the [Redacted] School District to support her claim. The Commission does not dispute that claim, however, the taxpayer signed a Form 8332 as the custodial parent releasing the claim to the dependency exemption for the present tax year and is bound by its terms.

CONCLUSION

The Commission does not dispute that the taxpayer was the custodial parent during the tax year in question, but she has properly released her claim on the dependency exemption deduction and is not entitled to the dependency exemption deduction.

THEREFORE, the Notice of Deficiency Determination directed to [Redacted] and [Redacted] dated July 23, 2014, is AFFIRMED.

IT IS ORDERED that the taxpayers pay the following tax and interest:

YEAR	TAX	INTEREST	TOTAL
2011	$89	$11	$100

Interest is calculated through March 31, 2015.

DEMAND for immediate payment of the foregoing amount is hereby made and given.

An explanation of the taxpayers' right to appeal this decision is enclosed.
