Petitioner.)	DECISION
_____)

On March 23, 2015, the Idaho State Tax Commission (Commission), pursuant to Idaho Code § 63-707(8), issued a Notice of Deficiency Determination (NODD) notifying [Redacted] (Petitioner) that he owed $1,076 for receiving an Idaho property tax reduction benefit to which he was not entitled. Petitioner timely protested the NODD and provided additional information to the Commission. The Commission, following a careful review of Petitioner’s file and submitted information, hereby issues its decision and approves the NODD as set forth herein.

BACKGROUND

Petitioner applied for a property tax reduction benefit for taxable year 2013, claiming that his total household income, less allowed deductions, was $14,044. At this income level, a taxpayer is eligible for a property tax reduction benefit. Petitioner’s claim was audited and, based on information available to the Commission, the Commission discovered that Petitioner had underreported his income when applying for the property tax reduction benefit. Petitioner had an additional amount of $73,267 of social security income that he had not reported when applying for the benefit that increased his total household income, less allowed deductions, was $88,743. The Commission adjusted the Petitioner’s income to reflect this discrepancy and determined that, based on his income, Petitioner was not entitled to a property tax reduction benefit.

As a result of this determination, the Commission issued an NODD to the Petitioner on March 23, 2015. The Petitioner timely appealed the NODD and supplied additional narrative information regarding taxable year 2013. Petitioner also provided a copy of correspondence that he received from the Internal Revenue Service regarding the federal treatment of his Social Security income in taxable year 2013. Petitioner provided no other additional documentary evidence to support his claim to the property tax reduction benefit for taxable year 2013.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

All property within the jurisdiction of this state is subject to property tax. Idaho Code § 63-601. A property tax reduction benefit is available to certain qualifying individuals and reduces a taxpayer's property tax burden for certain property types. Idaho Code § 63-701 et seq. The benefit, funded by state sales tax, is a payment of all or a portion of the claimant's property tax on the dwelling he owns and occupies. Idaho Code § 63-701; Idaho Code § 63-704. The amount of property tax reduction is prorated based on income; the greater the income, the smaller the benefit. Idaho Code § 63-705 (2).

Income for property tax reduction benefit is calculated differently than income for income tax purposes. Income, for the purposes of a property tax reduction benefit, is calculated by starting with the "federal adjusted gross income as defined in the Internal Revenue Code" and adding in certain sources of income "not already included in federal adjusted gross income." Idaho Code § 63-701 (5). One such source of income that must be added in is "all payments under the federal social security act." Idaho Code § 63-701 (5) (d).

In the event that a taxpayer is not required to file a federal tax return, his income must still be calculated to evaluate whether a property tax reduction benefit is available to him. Idaho Code § 63-701 (5). In such cases, a taxpayer calculates his income by determining what the taxpayer's federal adjusted gross income would be if he was required to file. Id. Then, as described above, the taxpayer adds in certain sources of income not otherwise included in his federal adjusted gross income. Id.

The taxpayer is permitted to deduct certain amounts from income prior to determining whether he qualifies for a property tax reduction benefit. Among the deductions the taxpayer may claim, and as is relevant to this matter, the taxpayer is entitled to deduct “the cost of [non-reimbursed] medical care” from his reported income. Id.

The Commission may require that the taxpayer provide documentation substantiating the income and deductions claimed on his property tax reduction claim. Id. Furthermore, the Commission may audit every claim that it receives and may recover from the taxpayer any erroneous or incorrect payments that it has made. Idaho Code § 63-707(5); Idaho Code § 63-708. If the Commission determines that it has made an erroneous or incorrect payment, it may “recover” such payments using the same “deficiency determination, collection, and enforcement procedures provided by the Idaho income tax act.” Id.

In the present case, Petitioner did not appropriately report the amount of social security income that he earned in taxable year 2013, and he was not entitled to the property tax reduction benefit that he received for that taxable year. In taxable year 2013, the maximum amount of net household income that qualified for a property tax reduction benefit was $28,000. Petitioner’s net household income, including all social security benefits earned by Petitioner and including all claimed deductions, was $88,743. Therefore, petitioner was not entitled to receive a property tax reduction benefit for taxable year 2013.

The Commission, therefore, is entitled to recover the erroneous property tax reduction benefit.

THEREFORE, the Notice of Deficiency Determination for taxable year 2013, dated March 23, 2015, and directed to [Redacted], is APPROVED and MADE FINAL.

IT IS ORDERED that the taxpayer pay the following tax, penalty, and interest:

YEAR	BENEFIT PAID	BENEFIT ALLOWED	INTEREST	TOTAL DUE
2013	$1,020	$0	$56.89	$1,076.89

DEMAND for immediate payment of the foregoing amount is hereby made and given.

An explanation of the taxpayer's right to appeal this decision is enclosed.
