		)

(Notice) dated September 6, 2024, issued by the Income Tax Audit Bureau (Bureau). Petitioners disagreed with all the Bureau's adjustments, including the flow-through adjustments from an S-Corporation (S-Corp). The Idaho State Tax Commission (Tax Commission), having decided the issue with the S-Corp and for the reason stated below, modifies the Notice.

BACKGROUND

Petitioners are the sole owners of the S-Corp. The Bureau disallowed the S-Corp's deduction of several expenses as they were personal expenses, and reclassified loans as distributions to shareholders. The Bureau increased Petitioners' income (capital gain) as they received distributions in excess of basis. The Bureau also disallowed the flow-through loss from the S-Corp as stock basis cannot be decreased below zero¹. Petitioners protested the Bureau's adjustments as did the S-Corp.

On January 30, 2025, the Tax Commission held a hearing on the issues where Petitioners' representative disputed the adjustments to the S-Corp returns. The Tax Commission modified the S-Corp's Notice in its decision on Docket Number 0-037-753-856.

¹ The Bureau's explanation of adjustments says, "Losses and deductions from a flow through entity cannot exceed the shareholders' adjusted basis in stock of the S corporation to the shareholder. Losses in excess of basis are suspended and treated as losses incurred in the following year. These are allowable to the extent of stock basis."

LAW AND ANALYSIS

Internal Revenue Code (IRC) section 1368 states in pertinent part that distributions in excess of basis from S-Corps are treated as a sale or exchange of property, the gain from which is reported as capital gain income. If a shareholder has no basis for the tax year and receives a distribution from an S-Corp, the distribution is a distribution in excess of basis and must be included in the shareholder's income. An S-Corp's basis is determined by the rules of IRC section 1367 which takes into account the shareholder's pro rata share of the corporation's items of income, loss, deduction, or credit, and nonseparately computed income or loss. Generally, a shareholder's basis is tracked by the entity and should be tracked by the shareholder.

In the present case, the representative argued that the Bureau incorrectly calculated Petitioners' basis but he did not provide an alternative calculation of the shareholders' basis. As the Tax Commission determined in its decision, Docket No. 0-037-753-856, Petitioners' personal expenses deducted by the S-Corp in its general ledger were distributions to shareholders. The Tax Commission also determined that Petitioners' withdrawals from the S-Crop were distributions to shareholders unless otherwise determined that they were loans to shareholders. Since Petitioners had no basis for tax years 2021 and 2022, these distributions were distributions in excess of basis. The Tax Commission found that the Bureau's adjustments, increasing Petitioners' income by the amount determined to be distributions, were appropriate. However, the Tax Commission modified the Notice as it relates to loans to Petitioners. See Docket Number 0-037-753-856.

As a result of the adjustments addressed in Docket No. 0-037-753-856, the representative requested the Tax Commission allow the Idaho child tax credit for Petitioners' four children who are under the age of 17. Petitioners did not claim the credits on their original Idaho returns as they reported Idaho losses for each year resulting in zero taxable income. However, the audit adjustments shown in the Notice created taxable income; therefore, the representative argued that Petitioners are entitled to the credits. The Tax Commission agrees and modifies the Notice to allow the Idaho child tax credits².

CONCLUSION

The Tax Commission modifies Petitioners' Notice as it modified the S-Corp's Notice in its decision on Docket No. 0-037-753-856 and further modifies the Notice to allow the Idaho Child tax credits.

The Bureau added interest and penalties to Petitioners' Idaho tax due. The Tax Commission reviewed those additions and found them in accordance with Idaho Code sections 63-3045 and 63-3046.

THEREFORE, the Tax Commission MODIFIES the Notice dated September 6, 2024, directed to Petitioners.

IT IS ORDERED that Petitioners pay the following tax, penalty, and interest:

DEMAND for immediate payment of the foregoing amount is hereby made and given.
